A ROGUE'S CLEVER RUSE.

How a Rothschild Gave an Annuity for a Porcelain Service.

European Correspondence Dayton Journal.

One day an old man, careworn, wrinkled, feeble, and apparently tottering on the verge of the grave, presented himself before Baron James Rothschild soliciting the honor of an interview with the famous banker. The old man was so aged, so poor, and had so dejected an aspect that the Baron was immediately impressed with a compassionate feeling, and this became a lively interest on learning that he was a Jew. The aged visitor took from his bag a rich and beautiful plate, so splendidly wrought that the Baron admired it exceedingly.

"Sir," said the patriarch, "will you buy this of me? I have the whole set and a service so beautiful must find its fitting place in the mansion of the prince of financiers."

"It is indeed very fine," said the Baron. "How much do you wish for the service?"

"Look you sir," said the old man, "I am bowed down with many years, and have not long to live. I am poor, and wish to end my days in comparative comfort. Will you in exchange for this valuable set of porcelain give me an income for life of 100 francs ($20) a month? It is not much for you, and I am so old."

The Baron looked at the poor old man, examined the plate again, and after a few minutes' reflection said: "Well, be it so; here is the first payment. Send me the service, and give me your name that I may have it entered in my treasurer's books."

The splendid set of porcelain was delivered the same day to the Baron, and a month afterward, while he was seated in his counting-house, a man entered and asked for the second payment of the proposed income. But the man was young, scarcely 34 years of age, of a vigorous constitution and great muscular development, and looked as if he would live for 100 years.

"But you are not the man!" exclaimed the astonished banker.

"Excuse me, Baron," said he; "I am indeed the man."

"But you appeared at least 80 years old," said the Baron.

"But, sir, I am only 30," said the man.

"In fact," continued the Baron, "I thought your venerable appearance did not belie your assertion."

"I have wonderfully recovered," observed the man, and thanks to your generosity."

The Baron laughed heartily, and gave orders for the payment of the money, exclaiming, "Ah! you are an excellent comedian, and have taken me in thoroughly."

"I am probably the first who has done so," replied the Jew, politely bowing to the millionaire.

For years Rothschild paid the monthly allowance. His porcelain is so exquisite that he does not complain.

A MATRIMONIAL ASSOCIATION.

The New Aid Society for the Unmarried, at Harrisburg, Pa.

From the N. Y. Tribune.

The most bewildering announcement of modern times is that of the American Mutual Aid Association for Unmarried People, which has been incorporated at Harrisburg, Penn. The association is open to all unmarried people, male or female, between the ages of ten and seventy-five years, without regard to race, color or previous condition of servitude. Upon payment of a certain sum, fixed by a graduated schedule, each member receives a certificate which entitles him or her upon proof of marriage after the expiration of at least one year to receive from $1,000 to $5,000, according to the amount paid for membership. There are various annual dues and assessments, which, in some mysterious way, is supposed to secure the financial standing of the association. It is apparent at a glance that the balance of advantages offered by the society lies decidedly with the stronger sex. A man need not run the slightest risk in joining it, for it is the blessed prerogative of his sex to propose, and he would not think of joining it unless he had a sure thing. But in the case of the other sex the circumstances are very different. For although to a woman whose personal disadvantages

"Have caused all hope to disappear of ever winning man's affection," a certificate of membership in this association would offer positive and palpable attractions, yet she might eventually pass the prescribed limit of seventy-five years without having anything to show for her money, not to speak of the mortification which she would endure at thus being debarred from further efforts in the very face of her fellow-members. Altogether the American Mutual Aid Association for Unmarried People seems to have been founded in direct opposition to that spirit of chivalry which has always been the crowing glory of the Great Republic.

THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE.

The Intellectual and High-Bred Woman Who Succeeds Mrs. Hayes.

Washington Letter to the Boston Advertiser.

There need be no apprehension in the public mind about the present mistress of the White House. Although naturally a most modest and retiring woman she has risen to the occasion, as all who know her best have been sure she would do, and a more courteous, high-bred woman would be hard to find, and one so simple and unaffected in manner. She is an intellectual woman who has kept abreast with the world; a wife whose opinions her husband regards with respect; a mother who is the friend, confidant and helper of her children; and a loyal friend, she comes into her public life with the determination to make herself the friend of the people, and she proposes that the White House shall lose none of its attractiveness under her reign.

When asked if she should keep open house, as Mrs. Hayes had done, or whether she should reserve certain times for herself, she said she should give herself, as far as her strength would permit, to the public; that as she belonged to them she must consider their wishes first and her own inclinations last. She is as quiet in her dress as was her predecessor, and she wears literally no jewelry. She wears her brown hair waved off her forehead and coiled low at the back. On Sunday she wore a handsome black silk, with a slight train, trimmed with heavy jet passementerie. She will not hold any formal receptions during Lent. Mrs. Garfield the elder said, in speaking of her son, "If he makes as good a President as he has a son the country has nothing to fear. James is a good man." He certainly has had no more sincere tribute that.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Canada has been greatly afflicted with diphtheria, and the ministers there have been generally beseeching the Almighty to stay the epidemic, but the Montreal Witness hits the nail squarely on the head when it says: "It is sheer blasphemy to lay to the account of providence a scourge brought upon a community by disregard of the laws of hygiene, and let run its dire will through the imprudence of the people generally and the carelessness of the authorities."

The terms of peace which have been concluded with the Boers recognize their right to self-government. The independence of the Transvaal is to be granted, subject to certain conditions to be determined by a British Commission. The Boers have, it appears, virtually gained the object for which they fought.

The fuel of the future is likely to be petroleum. The Nautical Gazette predicts that in a few years it will supersede coal on ocean steamers, being cheaper and far more easily handled. One man could feed the boiler with oil where forty-five are now required to shovel coal and rake the grates.

The editor of the Shasta County Democrat has been cruelly deceived. He published, with some flattering comments, an innocent-looking original poem sent to the office, without noticing that it was an acrostic which read: "The editor of the Democrat is a jackass."

We devote a good deal of space today to the Antelope mine, which, if it holds up as it has started, will be of the greatest benefit to this country. The mine is in excellent hands. Capt. Griffin has shown excellent judgment in the work and he has strong men behind him.

An important connection was expected to be made on the Comstock today, between a drift from the Yellow Jacket and the south branch of the Suto tunnel. This connection will enable the Yellow Jacket group of mines to be drained and prospecting work to be resumed in them.

Mysterious intimations concerning the authorship of the Murey letter are telegraphed day by day by the Associated Press agent in New York. It is time for the disclosure to be made, if there is anything to disclose.

The best way to get to heaven is a question which has sunk into comparative insignificance since the papers have commenced discussing the best route to Wood River.

The last number of Harper's Weekly contained a picture of the late Czar. The expression depicted on the Czar's countenance is that of a man in momentary expectation of being blown up.

The Gold Hill News says that John W. Mackay has obtained control of the Suto Tunnel in his own name, and not for the bonanza firm.

ROUND ABOUT

Deer have become numerous this year in the mountains northwest of Walker lake.

Moody and Sankey concluded their evangelical labors in San Francisco on Sunday.

Harry Hunt has been convicted, at Los Angeles, Cal., of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to imprisonment for life.

The suit of the Van Bokkelen heirs vs. the Alta Mining Company, has been decided in favor of the Alta folks.

The Grace Hezlep Comedy Company failed to fill their engagement at Eureka. They are stranded at Battle Mountain.

Howard Carr won the main match of the California Rifle Association, Alameda, on Sunday, by a score of 47 out of 50.

Arthur Davis, a lad 15 years of age, was killed near Lodi Sunday night by being run over by a freight train. He was riding on the brake-beam, and, falling asleep, fell off, cutting off both feet, and his hands were crushed.

CALIFORNIA.

Decision Promised—The Kellogg Trial—Suicide of a Woman—Inquest in the Case of Assemblyman Adams.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22. Judge Sullivan promises a decision in the Burke-Flood-Bonanza case a week from Wednesday. Meanwhile he will not hold Court, devoting his time to preparing the decision.

In the Kellogg case Highton began his argument for the defense this morning. He dwelt strongly on the prominence of special counsel for the prosecution and the small share in the trial taken by the District Attorney, claiming that the case was rather a private prosecution than a prosecution of the people.

An unknown woman last night weighed her satchel with a flatiron and jumped into the bay from Meigs's wharf. The body was recovered this morning.

An inquest in the case of Captain Adams, of Eureka, Nevada, killed by Adolph Schander, was commenced this afternoon. The examination of the witnesses shows the most astonishing lack of the observing faculty on the part of bystanders. Of all those on the stand this afternoon, who were present at the time of the tragedy, only one testified to actually seeing any shooting done, and he (Mr. Callan), one of the proprietors of the saloon, could not tell who commenced firing, but saw Schander in the act of shooting and a pistol in Adams's hand. Only one or two witnesses remain to be examined. The inquest was continued until Thursday.

Another Called to Account. LOS ANGELES, March 22. The lives of our Lotharios, since the Abato-Foster fatal episode, do not seem to run as smoothly as they might. It is rumored that last night a deserted fair one visited the store of one of our prominent jewelers, and, presenting a pistol, demanded that he had better make good his promises before any serious result occurred. A man who happened to be passing rushed in and disarmed the irate demoiselle. The matter has been hushed up.

Convictions for Opium Smoking. MARTINSVILLE, March 22.

Three young men were convicted today of smoking opium and fined $100 each or as many days in prison. These are the first convictions in this State under the new law making it a misdemeanor.

Experimental Trip to the Pacific Coast Over the Southern Route.

St. Louis, March 22.

A Republican [Kansas city special says: An excursion to California is contemplated by the Directors of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad and the Pullman Palace Car Company, which will probably pass through Kansas City next Thursday.

Two trains will start from Boston for San Francisco, to be drawn by two locomotives, making the trip in the ordinary time required for a passenger train—114 hours. The train will be hauled by the same engines the entire distance, each having two engineers and two firemen who will work six hours at each shift. The purpose of the trip is an official inspection of the new line. The object of taking of locomotives and cars through from the Missouri river to San Francisco—2,891 miles—is to see if it can be done, so great a distance never yet having been accomplished. The ordinary work of an engine is 100 to 250 miles a day. The result of the experiment will be waited with interest. The engines and boilers will be cleaned on the road, but this detention will be made up by running forty miles an hour.

The Terms of Truce With the Boers.

PROSPECT HILL, March 23.

An armistice of forty-eight hours has been concluded in order to terminate negotiations. The terms of the truce are that all arms, munitions and other property captured by either party during hostilities shall be restored; that the Transvaal shall be granted independence, subject to conditions to be hereafter settled by the Royal Commission, and that the Boer government shall commence after the Commission shall have made its report.

Meanwhile the British garrisons are to remain in the Transvaal without in anywise interfering with local affairs. The Boer forces will disperse forthwith, and Captain Elliott's murderer is to be delivered up to justice.

EVENING TAXES.

NEW YORK, March 22.

The Hartford (Conn.) Courant prints the following: The town of Great Barrington, Mass., is made happy by the settlement there of Mrs. Mark Hopkins, wife of the California millionaire. It is said that she will claim the town as her residence in order to save a large amount of taxes in San Francisco, and the people of Great Barrington are looking forward to having her pay the bulk of the taxes of that town, as her personal property and Pacific Railroad stock will have to go into her list.

An Arkansas Outrage.

EVENING SHADE, Ark., Mar. 22.

Three young men, well connected, went to the house of L. Royall, whose wife is the daughter of the County Treasurer, and an estimable lady, and made insulting proposals, which caused her to order them out of the house, whereupon they seized and brutally outraged her. They have been jailed. There is intense excitement.

A Locomotive to Run 80 Miles an Hour.

From the N. Y. Tribune.

The fastest trains in the country now run between Jersey City and Philadelphia, and the Pennsylvania Railroad hopes soon to make the trip in an hour and a half. A monster locomotive is now building in the company's shops at Altoon which is expected to perform the feat. It will be finished in about three weeks, and if the trial trip is satisfactory, five more will be built on the same model. A locomotive capable of attaining a uniform speed of sixty miles an hour is not to be sneered at, but Colonel Roberts, of Titusville, will attempt to throw even that extraordinary performance into the shade. There is now building for him at the Baldwin Works a locomotive which is designed to be the fastest in the world. The builders and the owner will be disappointed if it doesn't make a record of eighty miles an hour, and run 100 miles without taking on coal or water. It will be taken to Europe and tested on the railroads of England and the Continent.

President Garfield's Habits.

President Garfield rises at seven in the morning—before any of the family except his venerable mother, whose hour is six. He reads the papers; at eight he breakfasts; then he goes to his office and dictates personal letters to his stenographer. Then after a little chat with his family he is ready to receive the waiting crowd of callers. At half-past-two he lunches, then divers members of the Cabinet appear, and at six he dines. There are no Sunday night singing-clashes at the White House now. The Cincinnati Commercial says: "The President is a great lover of children. He enjoys their company, and loves to romp with them. His oldest daughter, Mollie, is of that age when her lessons and her educational advancement require much attention. Her father takes a deep personal interest in her welfare."

Windom's Change of Name.

From the Indianapolis Journal.

A gentleman well acquainted with Secretary Windom's family and pedigree says the name originally was not Windom, but Wyndham, and that relatives of the Secretary now living in Ohio still spell the name as last above written. This authority says that when Mr. Windom was a school teacher in Ohio, being then a very young man, he discovered that his name was not attractive in its old awkward shape, and "declared that no man with such an outlandish spelled name could ever amount to anything."

A Modest Little Girl.

A San Francisco lady wanted her little girl to bathe in a room the windows of which opened into the yard, in which were some fowls. "But," said the little girl, "I don't want to bathe before the chickens." "Oh, never mind the chickens," said her mother. "Well," said the little woman, "I won't bathe before the rooster anyhow."

The Glancy murder case has been transferred from Santa Barbara to San Mateo.

THE ANTELOPE MINE.

Its Discovery and Development—What It Looks Like Now.

On a beautiful spring day in 1874 the writer ran across Captain A. D. Griffin on the further slope of Peavine mountain, where he was engaged in prospecting. From that day to this he has devoted his entire time and energies to the work of finding a mine in the northwestern corner of Washoe county. He has studied every hill and made assays of nearly every piece of attractive rock over a hundred square miles. His attention was attracted a number of years ago by large and compact croppings on the range between Lemmons and Long valleys, about four miles north of the Antelope ranch. The croppings were very heavily and uniformly mineralized. There is a slight stain of copper, but the assay returns are gold. After some preliminary work in the way of running short tunnels and examining the lay of the ledge higher up, he made up his mind that he had found his mine, and the better he became acquainted with it the better he liked it.

THE LEDGE.

runs in a northeasterly and southwesterly direction, as do all the great fissure mines in this State. The west wall is syenite of the hardest kind, and the east country is porphyry. Captain Griffin attacked the stony problem with his accustomed energy and is solving it successfully. The GAZETTE's reporter made a visit to the new camp yesterday and everything was thrown open to his inspection. There was no corner of the mine he did not see, and everyone had orders to show all there was to be seen and tell all he knew about it. The claim lies on the north side of a somewhat steep canyon, and on the western slope of the range overlooking Long valley and the timber laden divide next to Sierra valley. A handsome building flanks a dump of ore which hangs over a road that winds down the mountain side to the mill. The building is 32x65 feet, well framed and covered with good rustic lumber. It will be painted a reddish brown color and trimmed with white. Its contents are a strong box over the mouth of the shaft, and the hoisting wheel, a fine machine, all iron, patented by Rix & Reynolds. Instead of having a big drum on top of a pole as the old style was, the whole thing is set on the ground and the horse pulls on a pole which goes over the top and fastens at the center. It is very light running and effective. A heavy iron bucket that will hold 500 pounds of ore is raised and lowered by a wire cable. The shaft has double compartments all thoroughly lined and well timbered. It is down about 100 feet below the 100 level and is going right straight for the 200 before any cross-cutting is done, and if there is no trouble from water it may go further. There is no use of prophesying for a mine, and the GAZETTE never does it. It only gives facts and lets its readers judge for themselves. No one can see into the rocks and tell what a mine is going to be, but what is already opened is easily told.

THE SHAFT.

started in ore at the top, and has never got out of it. The assays are better and there are more sulphurets at every foot of descent. The bottom of the shaft yesterday was crossed by a handsome seam of iron-stained ore that was very rich in sulphurets and carried about $50 in gold. A chunk of porphyry lay on the north side of the shaft, but it was only five or six feet high and probably does not go down far. On the 100 level two drifts are being run lengthwise of the ledge. The one going south is 84 feet in ore that goes from $12 to $60 to the ton. A heavy seam of clay 9 inches thick strikes across it, but the ore is of about the same character on either side. The face of the drift shows no change, or, if any, it is an improvement. There seems to be some increase in the quantity of sulphurets. Thirty feet from the shaft a branch drift cuts in 40 feet and runs about with the clay wall. It looks very well. The best part of the mine is shown by the drift running north, which is 110 feet long, and is all the way in good ore, assaying from $12 to $300 a ton, averaging $40. It is rich in sulphurets which have been concentrated down to $900 a ton. The drift is over six feet wide, and is in ore, top, sides and bottom. Wherever a blow-out has been put in a foot or two the rich sulphurets glisten at the back. On the surface of the ground the indications are that the ledge is very wide and there is no place under the ground where there is any sign of a wall either east or west. The matter in the shafts and both drifts shows much disturbance and is very irregular and confused. It has been ground and crushed between the titanic jaws of the porphyry and syenite ledges until there is hardly the semblance of a true ledge to be seen, except in the strong clay wall which is quite regular. Mr. Griffin calculates that inside of another hundred feet the ledge will become regular and the walls positively defined, and he wants to cross-cut below the line of the disturbance. Hence he is waiting, although he is very anxious to get under the big croppings which lie 50 or 60 feet higher up the hill than the mouth of the shaft.

THE MILL.

is a mile from the shaft, but is reached by a good road, on a not very steep grade. There is no water in the mine nor about it, although slight water stains and seepages coming in show that there is plenty below. The mill is set near some springs that will supply all present needs. They are being dug out, and a tunnel or two run in the hill to follow them to their source. The mill consists of two fine Huntington crushers of the heaviest pattern. They are set up substantially and have such a solid foundation that they can never budge. There is room alongside for another pair which will double the capacity of the works. The mill without concentrators could not save the sulphurets, which promise to be the most valuable part of the property. To prevent their loss a Frue and a Dodge concentrator are being put in, and as soon as they are ready the machinery will be started up and bullion may be expected. The power is furnished by a new 10-inch engine and a 44-inch boiler, set in a very handsome shape. The mill building is painted a reddish-brown, with white corners, and is a very neat and strong structure. It is well adapted in every way to its uses, and when put to work there will be no failure from bad workmanship. Everything is solid and well put together, and of the best materials. The ore is dumped into the top of the mill, which rests against the hill. The wagons are driven over trap doors, and the ore falls down to the rock-breaker, which feeds into the batteries, and the pulp is conducted in troughs to the concentrators, without ever being handled. When completed the mill will have a furnace and a pan for working the sulphurets, which are easily reduced, as they contain no base metals except iron. There is hardly a trace of silver, although much of the rock looks like silver ore. There is a blacksmith shop, a boarding house, a stable, an assay office and one dwelling in the camp at present, but if it turns out at all according to indications it will build up quite a town.

Improving the Highways.

Road Supervisor McFarlin has put the Long valley road in fine shape between here and the State line. There were some very ugly holes between Reno and the Emma mine, but they were partially filled up yesterday. The only fault taxpayers could find is that the men throwing rock out of the road keep a two-horse team standing idle all day. There is nothing for it to do except to haul the two men out in the morning and home at night. If the county pays the team wages for that it is money thrown away, as the men could shoulder their shovels and walk a mile or two to their work. From the Emma mine to Chat. Roberts' the road is better than it has been for years. C. N. Norton has worked on it faithfully with his big scraper, and it is now a fine road. He built a new piece around the sag where the stage driver was killed last winter. His scraper is a very effective piece of machinery. It is a wide plate of iron and wood geared so that it runs diagonally across the road. It scrapes up all the rock and loose earth and deposits them on the lower side. It would build a railroad bed on a sidewalk very fast. Norton has built a great many good roads around the country.

A Railroad Rumor.

According to the Plumas National, rumor has it that Yerington, of the Virginia and Truckee railroad, made the remark a few days ago that his company would build a railroad to Plumas one of these days.

U. S. vs. KIRMAN & CUTTING.

Judgment For Defendants in the Trespass Suit—No Whites on Pyramid Reservation.

The case of the United States vs. Kirman & Cutting was tried in the Circuit Court at Carson yesterday, resulting in a verdict for the defendants. The action was brought to recover damages laid at $4,000, the complaint alleging that plaintiffs' sheep had depastured the Pyramid reservation without permission of the Piute tribe, and therefore contrary to law. The action failed as against Kirman, for the reason that there was a failure to show that he had been in partnership with Cutting, and Kirman was therefore relieved of all responsibility in the case. Regarding the other defendant, the burden of proving that he had not obtained the permission of the Piutes to pasture his sheep on the reservation, rested with the prosecution, and the prosecution failed to establish that material point. To have established it would have necessitated the production in court of the Piute tribe, or, at least, a majority of the tribe. As the introduction of Indians in evidence would have been attended with peculiar difficulty, it is not surprising that Uncle Sam's case broke down. There were other points of weakness in the case. The jury brought in a verdict for defendants. There are no white trespassers on the reservation at present. A whole-some awe has been treated against infringing on the reserved rights of the Indians. Mr. Wasson, the acting Agent, states, however, that no objection will be made to the visits of pleasure parties to the lake or to their fishing there. He is glad to see visitors at the reservation house. But no whites will be allowed to make a business of fishing at the lake, or to pasture cattle or sheep within the limits of the reservation. Mr. Wasson goes east in June. The new Agent, Mr. McMasters, has not yet arrived.

The Best Route to Wood River.

A former resident of Wood River informs a Eureka Leader reporter that the nearest and best route to the new Dorado has never been mentioned in any of the papers. This is not a stage route, but is the best that can be taken by teams or horsemen. This route is from Eureka to Humboldt Wells, 140 miles, thence via Thousand Spring Valley to the head of Goose Creek, 60 miles, thence to Goose Creek ferry on Snake river (the same ferry crossed by the Kelton and Wood river stage), 50 miles, thence along the stage road to Bellevue (Wood River), 80 miles; total distance 335 miles. There is plenty of grass along this route, but there is a desert of 45 miles between Snake and Wood rivers, where teamsters would be obliged to haul water. The Blackfoot route so freely advertised is 780 miles from Eureka. The Kelton route is by far the shortest and cheapest for those who wish to go to Wood River by stage.

Choosing a Site.

The Board of Commissioners for the Insane have been going over the State grounds here to-day, selecting a site for the asylum. The Board is represented by Messrs. Deal, Crockett, Hallock and Huffer. Gov. Kinkaid was obliged to go below last night on important business.

The site chosen for the asylum is about a quarter of a mile southeast of the prison walls, and about 300 yards from the river. The building will face the south. The site selected cannot fail to prove satisfactory.

Haverly's Company Coming.

Charles H. Keshin, agent for Haverly's Comedy Company, was in town this morning. He says the Company will not stop between Omaha and Virginia City. They play in Virginia next week, and will then go on to San Francisco. The agent thinks it probable that a performance will be given in Reno on their way back East, although no arrangements have yet been made to that end. There are twelve performers in the Company, and they play a most amusing comedy.

ESTHETIC NONSENSE.

The Ridiculous New Society Craze in London.

From the London Hour.

Most amusing accounts are given of the new craze which has seized a certain section of London society. It seems, for some time past, sundry young men and women have betaken themselves to the "showing of their shapes," as Jack Tar calls it, in the most fantastical costumes of the mediaeval ages, and playing such tricks before high heaven as make the angels weep. The women exhibit themselves in tight-fitting garments, devoid of all shape and color, clinging to the form and showing the contour of the figure with quite as much precision as the fleshings of the ballet girl; the hair cut short and frizzed over the eyes and dyed of a deep orange brown; the throat encircled by a double row of large amber beads, from which depends a medallion ornament; and a looking glass hanging to the side, as in the pictures of the Venetian ladies by Paul Veronese. The female esthetic is in general shallow and half-starved, wrought in expression. She has in general a dingy look, which is attributed to the efforts made to attain that dullness of coloring in which alone resides perfection, according to her ideas, and which in some cases has to be procured by artificial means. She sighs and looks vacantly around from beneath the shock of stiff, frizzled hair, dyed of a reddish brown, according to the law she has made up to herself of having no defined color on any portion of her frame. She can scarcely open her lips to speak, so tightly are they pressed together, and never smiles save when the male esthetic approaches, and then they whisper together, and sometimes disappear locked arm in arm toward the supper room, where they are not more backward than the vulgar herd in the enjoyments of the creature comforts provided.

And while the female esthetic is simply ridiculous, the male of the species is absolutely offensive. He helps and ambles; his locks flow uncombed over his collar, but, when no one is by, he is not above investigating the contents of a tankard of Bass's ale, of which he partakes freely. He generally carries an artificial lily in his hand, at which he sniffs pathetically now and then.

The Beautiful Catalpa Tree.

It is believed that the railroad tie of the future will be cut from the beautiful catalpa tree. The Fort Scott, Texas and Gulf Railroad have planted 300 acres of young trees, and the Iron Mountain Railroad 100 acres, near Charleston, Mo. On the track bed of the latter company this of this wood have lain in the muddy silt of the Mississippi for twelve years, and are in a good state of preservation. They have outlasted two sets of white oak ties, and bid fair to survive the third. Fence posts in Indiana and Illinois are now sound after having been in service for forty, fifty, and even seventy-five years. In the muddy regions about Cairo, where it is grown extensively, it is used as "corner stones" for the most substantial buildings. It is of an elastic nature, but not so soft and light as cottonwood. Dr. John A. Warder, President of the American Forestry Association, claims for the catalpa a durability and power of resistance to the influences of the elements possessed by no other wood. It is found in the Mississippi valley and on the shores of the tributaries of the great river. It bears a large white, highly-perfumed flower, and grows quite rapidly.

Laughter Stops a Marriage Ceremony.

From the Lancaster Examiner. Alderman Barr and some friends were enjoying a quiet talk when the door opened, and in stalked Mary Wise and Frank McDonnell. They approached the Alderman, and McDonnell, stooping down, whispered that they wanted to be married but had no money. The Alderman consented and the service was begun. McDonnell made his response in a firm voice, but when the questions were put to Mary, she began to laugh. The Alderman saying that this was a serious affair, not to be laughed at, and he would go no further. McDonnell didn't like the idea of being only half married, he said, and they decided to return this morning to have the ceremony completed.
